TODAY'S ODDITY

CRICCIETH, Wales, July 12.—UP—Playing from the seventh tee on the Criccieth golf links Captain W. E. Jones holed out in four after his drive landed on top of a pheasant sitting on three eggs in her nest and the bird flapped the ball out into a playable position.

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Today is Sunday. Let's all make a special effort to go to church.

Religion is needed by all America. It is a necessary and sacred thing.

Perhaps it is the lack of religion that can be blamed for the present crime conditions in the United States.

We all know that if we were to follow the teachings of the church, the world would be a better place to live in.

So, today, forget that golf and theater date you made last Tuesday, take the wife and visit one of the Richmond churches.

There, in every one of those edifices built for the glory of God, you will find a welcome.

And, tomorrow, you will feel like a new man.

Often wondered what some of these New York columnists do when they run out of ideas.

Harold Lloyd, the movie comedy star, faces a plagiarism suit in the Los Angeles court.

Mrs. H. C. Wither, widow of the famous author, is plaintiff in the suit, charging that Lloyd stole the idea for the movie play from a story her husband submitted to him.

Whether Lloyd is right or wrong, one fact remains.

Authors, playwrights and the movie producers often "steal" plots, or incidents, unconsciously.

One may sit down and rattle off a story or a play, never knowing or remembering that perhaps years ago he or she read a play or novel of the same plot.

And when the play is produced or the novel written—the suits start.

One author recently published an amusing story in a certain low-brow weekly magazine.

Immediately hundreds wrote in to the editorial offices, charging that the author had stolen the story from another writer, whose story was published in another magazine.

An investigation revealed, however, that the two authors had gleaned their plot ideas from a newspaper clipping, and both—who lived miles apart—had written almost the same story.

Which all goes to show that plagiarism sometimes just can't be helped.

As an afterthought—maybe this article was cribbed from someone else.

Fire District To Be Formed

BRENTWOOD, July 12.—Formation of a fire district to include Brentwood and surrounding territory within a radius of three miles, will be voted on Wednesday.

Considerable agitation has been advanced by the residents of the district who are at present without adequate aid for fire fighting.

WITNESS TO BE BROUGHT TO STATE

BALTIMORE, Md., July 12.—UP—John MacDonald, key witness in the Mooney-Billings case tonight flatly denied he had told officials that he saw Billings at the scene of the explosion.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 12.—UP—John A. MacDonald, a bent old man, who hobbles about with a cane, came back from obscurity today to announce he is ready to go behind the bars, if necessary, to free a prisoner in San Quentin prison, whom he helped put there.

The prisoner is Thomas J. Mooney, California radical, labor leader, who was sent to prison largely because of the testimony of MacDonald connecting Mooney and Warren K. Billings with the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing in the hectic days before the United States entered the World War.

MacDonald said today for the second time, that his testimony that he had seen Mooney place a satchel down near the scene of the bombing was false, and that officials and police of San Francisco had forced him to do it.

Ready To Return
"I am ready to go back to San Francisco and right this wrong," MacDonald said.

MacDonald, who was arrested last night at his rooming house here after identification from his photograph at the Baltimore Post, the Scripps-Howard paper, was held temporarily today by Circuit Judge L. Dawkins after a habeas corpus hearing until State's Attorney Herbert R. O'Connor can wire Governor C. C. Young and ask if he wants him. He has been living here for 18 months, working first at a night watchman and later as night telephone operator at an apartment house.

O'Connor brought a new angle to the case today when he said that MacDonald told him and other officials he had seen Billings at the scene of the bombing. This contradictory to MacDonald's previous retraction made in 1921 that he had not seen either one of the two men now in jail.

Positive Identification

LOCAL BOY AT C.M.T. CAMP

Enrolled in the Citizen's Military Training Camp at Camp John P. Pryor, Monterey, California, for the 1930 training period, twelve hundred selected young men heard the Camp Commander Colonel Roger S. Fitch, charge them with the duties of good citizenship and with the proper development of themselves mentally and physically.

The records set by previous camps was cited by Colonel Fitch as excellent and he expressed the hope and belief that the present camp would equal the past ones in deportment and drills, both military and athletic.

The ceremony was further marked by the administration of the oath of loyalty and the presentation of National and Regimental standards.

Officers of the 363rd infantry will supervise the training until July 16, and thereafter the 30th Infantry will be in charge until the close of camp, August 3.

Enrolled from the vicinity of Richmond is Wilson Sahner.

Injured In Fall

JOHN PHILIP SOUZA, band master and composer, slipped on a companionway of the S. S. Leviathan as it docked at New York yesterday and was slightly injured. Four stitches were taken in a gash above his right ear.

BAND LEADER R. FLEAGLE 'INNOCENT' HURT IN FALL

NEW YORK, July 12.—UP—John Philip Souza, bandmaster and composer, fell as he walked down the companionway of the S. S. Leviathan today, receiving severe lacerations about the scalp. He was treated by ship's surgeons and then taken to his home at Sands Point, L. I. He is 76 years old.

TRANSAMERICA DROPS AGAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—UP—Sales of Transamerica corporation reached tremendous proportions today on the San Francisco and Los Angeles stock exchanges when the stock fell to a new all time low of 20 3-8.

San Francisco brokers handled 111,000 shares during the two and a half hour session while in Los Angeles 33,000 shares changed hands.

The pressure, which has been brought to bear on the market from unknown sources during the last few days, increased with the announcement from New York headquarters of the company that the next quarterly dividend would be 23 cents a share instead of the usual 40 cents a share.

The market opened at 21 1-2 and sagged to 20 3-8, where it stayed only momentarily and rallied to 20 1-4, the closing price on the San Francisco exchange.

In Los Angeles, it opened at 21 1-2 fell to 20 3-8 and closed at 20 1-2, slightly higher than on the San Francisco exchange where the trading was heaviest.

THE WEATHER

Fair but with fog today moderate temperature. Moderate west winds.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 12.—With Ralph Fleagle already hanged, and two other members of the Fleagle gang ready to be hanged next week, a letter purportedly sent by Jake Fleagle, the only member of the gang still at large, was made public by William A. Smith, Kansas attorney general.

The letter was postmarked from Tulsa, Okla., on June 8, and read: "I was the fourth man in the robbery of the Larned (Kansas) bank of December, 1927. Fred Fleagle knew nothing of the planning of the robbery at all. I hate very much to see anyone get jobbed for something they are perfectly innocent of."

Fleagle was hanged at the Colorado state prison, Wednesday night and George Abshier and Howard Royston, two other members of the convicted gang, are scheduled to hang in the Canon City prison next week.

Abshier and Royston were yesterday denied pleas for clemency by Governor Adams of Colorado, and will be hanged at the prison next week.

The death penalty has also been upheld by the state supreme court.

Youth Injured In Car Crash

EUREKA, July 12.—UP—Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wright Stevenson, of Claremont, flew here from Los Angeles by plane today to be at the bedside of their nephew, Edward Robinson, 18, Claremont, who lies near death in the Scotta hospital.

Robinson suffered serious internal injuries yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding plunged over an embankment eight miles north of Barkerville. His brother William was driving the car but escaped uninjured.

Little hope is held for the youth's recovery.

RELIEF SEEN FOR MIDDLE STATES

CHICAGO, July 12.—UP—Relief from a week of record breaking heat came to the middle west tonight. Cooling breezes sprang up from the northwest, moving a low pressure area rapidly toward the Atlantic, and displacing it with promises of general thunder-showers.

Even if the showers do not materialize weather bureau forecasters said, the cessation of scorching winds from the south would drop the mercury to an enjoyable level generally.

Since last Sunday the middle west has been the sizzling center of a heat wave which reached out at times to include almost all other parts of the country.

143 Dead
The wave was responsible for 143 deaths in the central states alone. Industrial operations have lagged and much farm work has been postponed; wheat harvesters in Kansas have been compelled to labor by moonlight and near drought conditions have been created.

Thermometer readings in the 100's have been reported daily in all middlewestern states for the past four days.

Nine additional heat deaths were reported in St. Louis today, raising the total there to 26 in the last two days, and to 35 for the season, an unprecedented mark.

29 Dead In Iowa
No less severe was the weather effect in Iowa, where 29 deaths from heat occurred during the week.

Chicagoans, favored by Lake Michigan's cooling breezes, watched the mercury climb to the 90's today and made Saturday half holidays an occasion for thronging the beaches. The breakup of the heat wave started in the Rocky Mountains and moved eastward at the same time most of the Great Lakes region and the upper Ohio valley began to cool off.

The north central states were to get their share of the breezes, with a possibility that the south central area would be somewhat relieved also by tomorrow night. The United Press tabulation of heat deaths in the middle west stood as follows tonight:

Ohio, 3; Indiana, 4; Illinois, 12; Wisconsin, 14; Iowa, 29; Missouri, 44; Minnesota, 13; South Dakota, 1; Nebraska, 15; Kansas, 8—total 143.

John Hampshire Called By Death

John Hampshire, 34, a member of Honor Post, Veterans of Foreign wars, of Richmond, died at the Livermore Veteran's hospital yesterday. Hampshire never fully recovered from wounds received in the World war, and has been a patient at the hospital the past seven months.

Honor Post will conduct the funeral services at the funeral chapel of Wilson & Kratzer, Tuesday afternoon, and interment will be in the Presidio cemetery in San Francisco.

Hampshire was wounded while overseas by shrapnel, and the injury became so aggravated that he went to the Livermore hospital, but succumbed to his injuries yesterday.

He is survived by four brothers, William H. of Richmond; George of Hammond; Walter, of Taft, and Lester of Sacramento; two sisters, Mrs. Kate Legge of Oakland and Mrs. Irene Amiot of Richmond.

Indian Flier

TWENTY-YEAR-OLD Mary Riddle, full blooded Indian girl recently hopped off on her first solo flight at Portland, Ore.

GAS PRICE ON INCREASE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—UP—If major oil companies have their way, the Pacific coast's gasoline warfare is nearing its end.

If independents have their way there will never be an opportunity for repetition.

Large coast cities presented an anomalous situation today, with gasoline offered at every price from a dime to 20 cents. Most of the major products were stabilized at the latter prices, but independent stations were in some instances adhering to the profitless lows established during the war, in some instances going hopelessly up behind the leaders, and in some striking compromises between high and low.

In Los Angeles, it was announced a certainty that the independents will make a concerted effort at the 1931 meeting of the state legislature to pass a bill declaring gasoline a public utility and having all producers and retailers placed under jurisdiction of the state railroad commission.

The same intention was voiced by Charles Jacobs, secretary of an association of independents in San Francisco.

Jacobs said losses from the war of four months' duration, will amount to millions for producers and hundreds of thousands for retailers.

Spanish Train Men To Strike

MADRID, July 12.—UP—Although official notice has not yet been given, it was learned today that all the railway men of the Andalusian line have called a strike for next Tuesday. Strenuous efforts are being made to settle disputes and to avoid a strike which would involve all southern provinces. The men are asking better wages and improved living conditions.

Wilbur En Route To Summer Home

CHICAGO, July 12.—UP—Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the Interior, advised in Chicago today, en route to Lake Tahoe, his summer home. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wilbur. The secretary carried a fish pole, but said he had work to do, including the matter of conservation of oil in the Kettleman hills district of California.

Wilbur hopes for a billion dollar saving in oil, he says. "Unless union operation of basins of oil is set up," he said, "this vast sum of money will be wasted."

70 DIE IN TRAM CRASH

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 12.—UP—A street car, jammed with workers, hit on open draw bridge at high speed today and leaped out into space, dropping into 20 feet of water in the river Riachuelo.

Between sixty and seventy persons lost their lives. Divers had recovered 56 bodies late today.

Four persons, including the conductor and a woman passenger were picked up as they struggled in the water and were taken to a hospital.

Men Drowned
Most of the victims had no chance. The doors and windows were closed and the packed mass of humanity was carried under the river to drown.

The scene of the disaster was in the suburb of Barracas, three miles from the center of the city. The draw bridge had been opened to permit the passage of a tug towing a small steamer.

From available evidence, it appeared that the car approached the bridge at high speed, coming around a slight curve and up an incline, which prevented the motorman from seeing that the bridge was open.

Bodies Found
Divers brought up the ticket box of the car, showing 76 fares paid. It was believed that some of the victims had been standing on the rear platform and had been swept down the river by the swift current. All the bodies recovered were jammed inside the car. There was hope that a few of those on the platform might have been swept to the banks of the river downstream and escaped with their lives, but no additional survivors had been reported late in the day.

The four who were rescued were picked up by the tug. Police and fire departments arrived on the scene, and with the aid of sailors from the port, divers were soon descending to the car. They brought up body after body, piling them in heaps on the deck of a fire department tug.

Divers found all the doors and windows closed, adding to the difficulty of their work. The passengers were found tangled inside.

Thousands of workmen had lined the banks of the narrow stream, fearing that relatives and friends were among the victims.

The accident occurred at 6:20 A. M. The victims were workers from Lanus and other suburbs, enroute to the industrial district of La Boca.

The bodies were taken to La Boca, where a steady stream of visitors came during the day to identify them.

Traffic in the river will be blocked until the street car is raised.

LOCAL LOTS PURCHASED BY R. R.

Further impetus was given to the reports that the Great Northern Western Pacific will locate its eastbay terminal in Richmond yesterday when it was made known that tideland and waterfront properties from Richmond to Alameda are being mysteriously purchased.

E. B. Stone, extensive owner of eastbay shore properties admitted that he had received many inquiries about an 180 acre plot of land near the local inner harbor, but refused to state whether or not he had accepted an option on it.

It was rumored yesterday, and not denied, that the Santa Fe, a known ally of the Hill interests, has been at work through its financial agents purchasing options on pivotal plots of land along the bay shore from the Alameda county line to the Richmond inner harbor and Point Richmond.

Rails Laid
Yesterday the laying of 85-pound rails—the standard rail weight—was started on the Sacramento Short Line railroad, which is now controlled by the Western Pacific.

It was also revealed that the Western Pacific plans to supplant its train ferry now used by the Sacramento Short Line to cross the lower San Joaquin river between Chiles and Mallett with a $7,000,000 bridge. Surveys for the bridge have been completed.

As previously stated in the RECORD-HERALD, the Great Northern Western Pacific is preparing to bring its lines into the Richmond inner harbor district.

Much Land
A large piece of property, which includes 422 acres which will be filled in, is owned by the mysterious Berkeley Waterfront company.

This piece of property is known to be owned by the Great Northern and will make an exceptionally good site for a terminal here. With the acquisition of the other waterfront lands, the company would then have a right of way from the local terminal to Oakland and other eastbay cities.

Oakland, Berkeley and Richmond real estate men, dealing in waterfront properties have admitted that since five years ago small parcels of land in contiguous areas have been quietly purchased at intervals.

It is believed that these purchases were made with a view of linking up weak spots in the shore line right-of-way.

DROWNED MAN BODY FOUND

PITTSBURG, July 12.—The body of Fred Babler, who was drowned last week in an attempt to extinguish a fire in his clothing, was found today by two fishermen when it came to the surface.

The body was identified by papers. Dr. G. L. Coates Sr., declared the man was not burned when he leaped into the waters but met death by drowning.

Babler, according to men who were working on a dredger with him, attempted to light a cigarette while filling a gasoline engine. His clothes caught fire and in an attempt to extinguish the fire, Babler leaped overboard.

He failed to come to the surface, and despite an organized search by police, his body was not recovered until yesterday.

LEGION TEAM WINS C. C. TITLE

A number of youthful ball players of Richmond are this morning dreaming sweet dreams of baseball glory, while another group of young diamond athletes of Antioch are sad, tired and disgusted.

Reason—The Richmond American Legion baseball aggregation, (Native Sons) yesterday afternoon, walloped the Antioch American Legion boys by a score of 30 to 1 to win the American Legion Junior baseball title of Contra Costa county.

The local youths yesterday emerged from partial hitting obscurity to pile up one of the most appalling slugging displays yet witnessed in the county. Richmond's hickory wielders slammed the ball into every corner and even out of the Antioch diamond in a wild hitting orgy that completely baffled the unfortunate Antioch youngsters.

Two pitchers failed to stop the local boys who were aspiring to the high hitting averages. A total of 26 hits was garnered by Richmond. The aggregate was lifted far out of the lot yesterday by Paul Moitoza and Humphrey, both of Richmond while William Outman, also of Richmond, hit a homer but failed to touch second base.

White, Crocker, and Shinnick, all local boys, garnered three base hits. Crocker, Moitoza and Glover all connected with the ball for two baggers, while Outman piled up two doubles. Crocker was the hitting star for the Richmond aggregation, making good five out of six times at bat. A young fellow by the name of White handled a big surprise to the locals who went to Antioch yesterday by emerging from second string obscurity to collect three hits out of four times at bat, one of which earned him an easy triple.

The local boys started out in the second inning on their road to glory. The first inning saw no scoring, but the going was easy for the Richmond players after that time. Richmond collected one run in the second period, five in the third, four in the fourth, five in the fifth, three in the sixth, six in the seventh, and six in the eighth.

Pasconi, a young giant from Richmond, threw consternation into the ranks of the Antioch team by his easy but tricky curves. He was nipped for six hits, three walks, and whiffed 12 Antioch batters. Boone and Araque alternated in the box for Antioch. Both chukkers were unable to make any effect whatever upon the local outfit.

Second Game

Yesterday's victory was the second contest of the series in which Richmond was victorious. The first game was won by the locals with a score of 12 to 2. Richmond played errorless ball in the former battle, but its hitters had not yet warmed up to their full ability which blossomed out in yesterday's slaughter.

The next step for the Richmond boys on the way to state American Legion baseball fame is a three game series for the championship of the eastbay district. Berkeley, titler of Alameda county, will be their opponents in this series, which will begin next Friday afternoon at Lincoln park in Alameda.

The Richmond American Legion champs have had little trouble in passing through the sometimes stiff county opposition. First Crocker and then Bay Point went down before the local youngsters on their way to the county title, which they yesterday won so easily from the Antioch nine which is coached by George Ackerman, St. Mary's college grid star.

The local team is being coached by a veteran of local baseball, "Chick" Autrey, Robert San Miguel, who caught for the county champions last year, is also assisting in the work of drilling the Richmond boys into a winning ball team.

BOBBY JONES WINS OPEN TOURNEY

MINNEAPOLIS, July 12.—UP—The mastery of Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, over every test of golf and every rival was demonstrated once more at Interlachen today when Bobby won the 34th national open championship by a margin of two strokes.

In the course of establishing himself not only as the new champion, but the greatest golfer of all time, Jones shattered the record for Interlachen with a brilliant third round of 63, four strokes under par.

Bobby's winning aggregate for the 72 hole test was 287, two strokes better than MacDonald Smith, the veteran Scottish professional, who came into the prize money of $1000 by taking second place to an amateur.

Twelfth Title

It was Jones' twelfth national championship. He won our nation's open in 1923, 1926, 1929 and 1930; the American amateur in 1924, 1925, 1927 and 1928; the British open in 1926, 1927 and 1930 and the British amateur for the first time this year.

The Atlanta title holds all three national championships of the United States and Great Britain thus far contested for in 1930, and he will seek to make it a clean sweep in the amateur tournament.

There were two great thrills to the finish of this present championship, which was concluded under stormy gray skies and in the presence of some 15,000 spectators.

Large Margin

One was the smashing 63 which Bobby uncorked in the morning to come from behind and lead the field by a margin of five strokes. That round, one of the greatest in championship history, dismayed the ranks of the professionals who had been aligned against the Atlanta in an effort to get the lucrative title back once more in their ranks. The heart went out of many a prominent contender when Jones reeled off six birdies and bettered par by four strokes.

But this tournament held yet another thrill, for on his last round Bobby Jones weakened, he wobbled and he played some of the kind of golf you see at your own club when the fussy foursome gets out on Sunday morn.

Pros Behind

And as Bobby wobbled, the professionals once more took up their pursuit. MacDonald Smith, Harry Cooper, Horton Smith, the youthful Missourian who led at the halfway mark and Johnny Golden of Norton, Conn., all had a chance to catch the champion by shooting their best golf.

But of the entire lot, only old Mac Smith, who tied for this same title when Bobby was just nine years old, had the stuff to make the pursuit interesting after the turn of the final round. The Scot hung on grimly, and picked up four strokes on Jones on the outside nine about mid-afternoon. Then the wind whips sweeping the hilly inside nine blew away his chances.

Indian To Live Under Roof For 1st Time In Life

PAWHUSKA, Okla.—John Stink, Osage Indian, has been persuaded to live under a roof. Stink is 60 years old and is worth $150,000.

He lived on his allotment about five miles south of Pawhuska in a tent until J. George Wright, Indian agent, persuaded Stink to occupy a small frame house built for him.

For the past 10 years Stink has refused to visit Pawhuska and draw his tribal funds. Formerly he lived in an old frame building near the agency, but one morning while absent from home, policemen killed his four dogs. Stink turned his back on Pawhuska and never has been in town since that time. He lived alone until recently the Osage

Gallant Fox Wins Classic At Chicago

CHICAGO, July 12.—UP—Gallant Fox, one of the greatest three-year old champions of the American turf continued his onslaught against all winning records by capturing the rich Arlington classic today.

The Audley Farm's Gallant Knight was second and G. W. Foreman's Ned O., third.

A crowd of 50,000 roared acclaim to the great combination of Earl Sande and Gallant Fox as the Belair stud champion finished the mile and a quarter in front of his field and added $64,750 to his winnings, making him second only to Zev as the biggest money winner of the American turf. The victory brought Gallant Fox's total to $274,960 as against $313,639 earned by Zev before he was retired.

W. R. Coe's Maya was fourth.

Gallant Knight made a splendid bid against the champion but was no match for him. Gallant Fox, with ears pricked up, held his opponent safe, but flashed across the wire only a neck in front of the Audley Farm thoroughbred.

The race was run in the sizzling time of 2:03 4-5 over a fast track, only one fifth second slower than the track record.

Gallant Fox paid $2.64 to win.

Odd Fellows Meet Elks 9 Here Today

Two teams that have been making history on Richmond baseball diamonds will at last clash today in what promises to be the season's prize baseball battle.

With great reputations behind them and championships ahead of them, the Richmond Odd Fellows and Richmond Elks will come to grips this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First street ball park.

Hard hitting athletes all, the linkers and Antlers are scheduled to perform a hitting exhibition that will provide the grandstand with all the horizon-gazing activities that it desires.

Clever fielders all, both groups of lodgemen are expected to maintain especial vigilance over the wide open spaces far out in the First street diamond, and, in so doing, will probably prevent the hitting columns from attaining high altitude.

A large share of the responsibility for today's results will probably lie upon Carl Kamb and W. Peacock. Kamb has been pitching heavy ball for the Odd Fellows and Firemen this year, and will be able to handle himself capably on the mound for the linkers this afternoon. Peacock is an up-and-coming young chucker who has been showing up well in Standard Oil Twilight league competition. He is expected to present the Odd Fellow slingers with plenty of knotty problems to solve today at First street.

Bill Gualdoni, a veteran of local baseball, will receive for the Odd Fellows this afternoon, while "Suede" Jensen, that talkative receiver who furnishes plenty of entertainment for the Standard Oil league fans, will probably be behind the plate for the Elks today.

Corey Nine To Meet Selby At Selby Today

The Selby ball club will furnish today's opposition for the Corey Garage nine at Selby this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock.

A clever aggregation of speedy athletes from local diamonds is boasted by the Corey manager, L. Matthews, and the Selby boys will have plenty of work to do if they expect to send the invaders back to Richmond defeated.

"Lefty" Brendel or Swenson will do the chucking for the locals today.

Grave Yields Turkey Eggs

MODESTO.—Dave Bishop tender of a bridge on the San Joaquin river not far from where three men were killed in cold blood recently by an itinerant laborer, found what looked like a new grave near the bridge.

He hurried to a telephone and summoned deputy sheriffs.

When the "grave" was opened it was found to contain several dozen incubator turkey eggs a farmer had buried after they reached a ripe old age without producing turkeys.

MOITOA NINE ORGANIZED HERE

Another fast ball playing aggregation has entered the ranks of the local baseball fraternity with the reorganization of the Moitoza Fords.

After a lapse of several years, this nine has again come back to take its place on the diamonds of Richmond. A snappy club has been collected by Anthony Moitoza, and a fast season is forecast for the newly organized squad.

The team will appear in its first contest (this afternoon at 2:30 at the San Pablo diamond. Although no team has yet been signed for today's game, it is believed that fast competition will be raked up for the Fords this afternoon.

The personnel of the Moitoza team will include athletes who have been doing notable work in the Standard Oil and City Twilight leagues.

Martin will do the twirling for the Fords during the coming season. Martin gained fame as a chucker for the old San Pablo champions. Anthony Moitoza is to do the receiving for the Moitoza squad, while G. Moitoza will occupy bag number one. Howard Goldworthy is scheduled to hold down the second sack, and Guido Prolo will cover third base. Larry Gillan will ho; around in the hot bed for the Fords. Tony Cola will disport himself in left field; Andrade in center field and Eby in right field.

NO EXCUSE FOR A "SPITTING HEAD"

There's no need for an aching head to spoil your day. At the first warning throbs take Dillard's Aspergum. Chew it a few minutes. Almost before you realize it you have chased the pain away. It's as simple as that—no trouble, and harmless—for Dillard's Aspergum is the new and easier way to take aspirin.

Dillard's Aspergum is the finest aspirin in delicious chewing gum form. You can take it any time—any place. You need no water to gulp it down. There is no unpleasant taste—no choking.

Because you chew Dillard's Aspergum the aspirin mixes thoroughly with the saliva so that all its soothing qualities are effective quickly, continuously.

Keep a package of Aspergum on hand for quick, harmless relief from the pain of headache, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. It helps break up a cold, and soothes irritated throats, even such severe cases as follow tonsil operations. If your druggist does not have Dillard's Aspergum, send for free sample to Health Products Corporation, Dept. A, 113 North 13th Street, Newark, N. J.

The banquet will start at six o'clock.

Dr. A. B. Hinkley is candidate for the post of coroner at the coming primary election.

Christian Science Lesson Subject

"Sacrament" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon today in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, and branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the lesson-sermon will include the following from the Bible: "When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying 'Whom do men say that I, the Son of Man, am?' And Simon Peter answered and said: 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.' And Jesus answered and said unto him: 'Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona; for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee: That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it.' (Matt. 16:13, 16-18.)

Rev. Hudson To Be Installed Here Tonight

Rev. Guy L. Hudson, will be installed as pastor of the Grace Lutheran church, corner of Thirteenth and Barrett avenue, at what is anticipated to be one of the most impressive services ever held in the church tonight at 8 o'clock.

Several prominent pastors will be visiting speakers. Rev. E. A. Trabert of the St. Michael's Lutheran church, Berkeley, who will be in charge, will deliver an address and Rev. R. F. Arps, of Oakland, will also speak.

Vocal solos will be offered by Mrs. W. H. Page, choir leader of the church, and by Herbert Caswell of Berkeley, who is to sing "Come, Jesus Redeemer" by J. C. Bartlett.

"The Forward Look" is to be the theme for the morning sermon, in which the pastor is to discuss every day problems and try to solve them.

Both the morning and evening services are promised to be worth while, and friends, as well as members of the church are invited to attend this red letter day in which Rev. Hudson will embark upon his new work in Richmond.

MRS. PIRIE LEAVES

An extensive eastern trip is to be enjoyed by Mrs. Frank Pirie of 810 Chanslor avenue who left yesterday morning via the Southern Pacific. After a several days stop in Denver, she will visit Chicago and New York, being joined later by her husband who is an employee of the Southern Pacific. The trip will take about three months.

PAINFUL CORNS

Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickel) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

"Corn Fly" for corns, 35c. "Corn Fly" Foot Bath Powder, 25c. and "Corn Fly" Bunion Remedy, 50c. (all three—$1.10 value—for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by Hi-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.

LEO IS COMING — WEDNESDAY

WARNER OLAND IN MYSTERY FILM HERE

Modern mystery story fiction has done much to glorify the American—and English detective, with one exception. Nayland Smith provides the exception and his case is there by the strangest of them all.

Nayland Smith is the only detective in literature who is less well known than the villain he pursues.

Smith is the man who thwarts the many schemes of Dr. Fu Manchu in Sax Rohmer's series of mystery tales.

He always wins out over the Oriental menace but is probably only a tenth as well known to the public as Dr. Fu Manchu.

This is because Sax Rohmer has made his villain the central figure in his stories, because Fu Manchu's name is on the covers of most of these books and because the villain is perhaps the most crafty of all menaces.

Now, through the medium of talking motion pictures, Nayland Smith will probably become as well known as most of fiction's detectives but will never surpass the recognition given the villain. In the opinion of Hollywood writers.

O. P. Heggie created the role of Nayland Smith in "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu" and he continues in the same role in the sequel picture, "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu" which comes to the Fox-California theater today for two days.

Warner Oland will again be seen and heard as the crafty doctor-villain. Others who appear in the same characterizations they established in the first "Fu Manchu" picture are Jean Arthur, Neil Hamilton and William Austin.

Rowland V. Lee is the director. Florence Rye and Lloyd Corrigan are the adaptors—filling the same capacities in which they served in "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu."

Also on the program is a Movie-tone News and a talking comedy entitled "Weak But Willing."

Dr. Fu Manchu Returns

WARNER OLAND, O. P. Heggie, Jean Arthur, Neil Hamilton and William Austin are the stars in "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu," which is to be shown at the Fox California theater today and tomorrow.

M. G. M. LEO WILL VISIT RICHMOND

The best known animal in the whole world comes to Richmond Wednesday, June 16 in the person of Leo, the huge lion that roars his supremacy at the beginning of all Metro-Goldwyn Mayer pictures. We are accustomed to seeing Leo from within the 'Ars Gratia Artis' scroll of the trade-mark design which he has helped to make so familiar, but today it is different for he arrives among us in person in all the grandeur and style that should surround "the greatest star of the screen" and the king of beasts. Leo will perform and eat his 25 pounds of raw meat in front of the Fox-California theater at 4:15 p. m.

Leo's entourage consists of two magnificent motor cars and one palatial motor truck and a staff of five escorts. All of the conveyances may be readily identified by the resplendent fashion in which they have been decorated in red and gold. Credit for the origin of this style of decoration may go back to any one of a number of circuses but it has remained for Metro-Goldwyn Mayer to bring it to the new high point of splendor such as exemplified in the preparation of this equipment for Leo, its trade-mark lion.

One of the motor cars is that which furnishes transportation for Leo's advance representative who visited this town two weeks ago to bring word that Leo was on the way. The second motor car is that which carries the callphone, Leo's own private band accompaniment for Leo is fond of his music and is always in a much better mood to receive his thousands of guests after having been serenaded by this instrument. Any numbers which by chance do not please his fancy, he has no trouble drowning out with his reverberating jungle roar.

Food Shortage Hits Moscow, Leningrad

MOSCOW, July 12.—UP—The shortage of food in Moscow, Leningrad and other urban centers has been considerably sharpened by consequent lengthening of food queues in evidence everywhere.

The difficulties, moreover, have been intensified by a serious cigarette famine and complete exhaustion of soap, except small amounts of the roughest laundry soap.

Available supplies are of course concentrated in the shops serving manual workers, who are always first served in the Soviet Union. The growing volume of grumbling is therefore largest among other classes of the population, especially office workers and professional persons.

Fortunately the government is only able to supply the bread ration. Every manual worker receives 2 pounds a day, every mental worker 1 pound, without trouble. Half of the bread is white and half black. In addition there is also an ample supply of potatoes at relatively cheap prices.

Since bread and potatoes are the principal staples of the working class diet, discontent among the class upon whom the government's power rests is kept at an absolute

Leo To Visit

LEO, the celebrated M. G. M. star, will be in Richmond on Wednesday. He will be at the Fox California theater.

Commercial whisker-growing is a science, and Hollywood is its home.

In the film city, beards are much more than facial adornments. They are a commodity dealt in by specialists, and for sale to the highest bidder. According to the experts, whisker-culture is an art demanding finesse and a keen understanding of human nature.

Whiskers can, and do, express character, according to Jim Collins, makeup chief at Paramount's studios, and therein, lies their value in pictures.

"There are benign, pathetic, villainous and professional beards," says Collins. "There are also bourgeois and aristocratic whiskers."

Many beard specialists have learned to alter the cut of their whiskers to suit any type of facial adornment required by the movies. Others, usually old veterans, have spent years developing a certain type of beard.

With the revival of the Western outdoor pictures, such as "The Border Legion," which will show at the Fox-California theater, starting Tuesday, beards are again a rage in Hollywood. Collins says the short, scrubby beard, representing only two or three days growth, is the most villainous appearing. Long whiskers usually give an appearance of venerability and kindness. In "The Border Legion," in which Richard Arlen, Jack Holt and Eugene Pallette have featured roles, Collins specialized in the villainous whiskers of the 1870 gold camp style.

Also on the program is a talking comedy entitled "Down With Husbands."

HOLLYWOOD FILM SHOP TALKS

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—UP—Very few of the thousands of motion picture fans who have admired Anna Q. Nilsson on the screen know that for months she has been encased in a plaster cast and that she faces some time yet as a semi-invalid.

The Swedish actress entered a hospital here last January and was told that a long period in the east was her only chance to fully recover from injuries she received to her hip when she was thrown from her horse and kicked while riding on a Hollywood prairie party.

The blow came to Miss Nilsson when she was at the height of her career as a player in the silent pictures and when she was assured that she was to have a chance to continue starring in the talkies.

A natural good humor is providing her most valuable asset, the star declared in an interview she granted from her wheelchair on the hospital lawn.

"I am told that I will be fully recovered by the end of the summer," she said. "Naturally, my most ardent ambition is to rush to a studio and have a real look at these wonderful new talking pictures in the making."

The star admitted, however, she had a diversion at present that almost fully occupied her time.

"I have learned to weave the wicker trays," she said. "And this funny part is that I sell them for real money."

Miss Nilsson's effort to pass off her new art in a jocular manner does not eliminate the fact that the "Nilsson wicker trays" are quite a vogue in Hollywood's motion picture colony.

The actress uses the proceeds from her basket sales to furnish a club room for crippled girls at the hospital where she is on the way to recovery.

"The only problem at present," she said with a laugh, "is to work my hands fast enough to supply trays for my trade. You would be surprised at the number of people on the waiting list. I am very happy because I feel what I earn is going to a wonderful cause."

Miss Nilsson revealed that she had been able to make about 20 trays so far. Owners of the coveted pieces include Mae Murray, Kay Hammond, Marie Dressler, May McAvoy, Alice Joyce, Hobart Bosworth, Mrs. Tod Browning and Walter Pidgeon.

The actress declined to estimate what amount her fund will reach, but "guessed it would be enough to furnish the rooms with the best that can be had."

China Loses Much Money In Its Wars

PEIPING, July 12.—UP—Chinese businessmen in the north feel that at least a year of good business will be necessary to recover the losses imposed upon them by the severe struggle for power between General Chiang Kai-shek and the northern confederacy. The good effects of two years of peace have been completely wiped out.

In a mad scramble for funds to carry on the war General Yen-Hsi-shan and his associates have penalized Chinese business to the utmost limits of its endurance. They have imposed additional taxes on everybody, and issued "military notes" which shop-keepers were compelled to take at their face value, although they were not soundly secured. The first issue of these notes 6,000,000, silver dollars, caused a panic in the Peiping and Tientsin markets.

Farmers, who already complained that taxes were so high they could not make any profit, have had to pay their land taxes months in advance, and these taxes have been increased. In addition, carts and farm animals have been commandeered, with a promise of compensation which the farmers do not regard hopefully.

The taxicab and motor-bus business in the north, which had increased sharply during two years of peace, has been completely disrupted by seizure of all available motor transport for use of troops. Yen's commanders agree to pay hire an damages to the owners "after the war," but it is feared that payment will be made in discounted military notes.

PLUCKED FROM THE RADIO WAVES

NEW YORK, July 12.—UP—Eugene Ormandy, famous maestro of the air, has been engaged as guest conductor for both the Philadelphia Symphony and the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

Ormandy will conduct the great Philadelphia organization at concerts in Philadelphia on July 28, 29, and 30. He will lead the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra at the stadium concerts on the evening of August 25 and 26.

Ormandy, today one of the most prolific producers of fine programs in the radio world, conducted his first sponsored program last September when the Jack Frost Melody Mommets made its bow. He has directed this program every week since then, as well as many other network programs. He came to this country shortly after the war with a tremendous European reputation behind him.

A native of Budapest, he had toured the continent winning immense acclaim as a violinist and was known all through Europe as one of the finest violinists in many decades. He still appears frequently as a violin soloist, though it is as a conductor for which he is today so famous.

JOHNNY KYTTE and Dick Merrill, air mail pilots, wear these costumes while flying the mail between Atlanta and Richmond, Va., during the hot spells.

one of the world's greatest writers of detective stories and creator of the famous "Craig Kennedy, the Scientific Detective," has joined the ranks of radio writers associated with the National Broadcasting company.

In collaboration with Finis Farr of NBC's continuity department, Reeve will write a series of radio detective stories in which a new character, Thurlow Wade, will be introduced. The new series will be inaugurated Monday night, July 14, at 8:30 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Time, and will be heard through an NBC-WJZ network every Monday night at the same time.

The new series will not be solely for entertainment but it is planned to show dramatically that crime does not pay and that the law in the end always outwits the criminal. The period will be known as the Crime Prevention Program and has been endorsed by the national crime prevention associations.

In addition there will be a short talk by a national authority on crime prevention on each program. Edward Mulrooney, New York City's new police commissioner, will be the first speaker in the series.

Madagascar Converts On 3 Day Retreat

VATICAN CITY, July 12.—UP—Three days retreat shut off from all worldly influences, is the preparation made by the Roman Catholic converts in Madagascar before their baptism or confirmation, according to correspondence reaching the congregation for the propagation of the faith.

In the apostolic diocese of Madagascar, the new converts, the students of the school and the catechists perform their spiritual retreat annually. This retreat consists of a series of religious exercises that last a whole day. The inhabitants of distant villages bring their food and stay with the converts of the place.

The most important retreat is that of the catechists which takes place yearly at the beginning of January in every district. It is a completely shut-in retreat and the preacher is appointed by the Apostolic Vicar. The catechists also have a brief retreat the first Friday of every month.

The missionaries, according to their reports here, have discovered that to convert is one thing, but to instill into pagan or heretic souls the principles of Christianity is another matter. It is especially through tireless instruction that the necessary work of conversion is done, they state.

LAST WORD IN FASHION HITS

By HONORE BOOTH
NEW YORK, July 12.—UP—The trend of autumn fashion, as far as I have been able to observe it, would seem to show that the change in colors is greater than the change in the silhouette. Therefore I have compiled my notes on color for you to be an aid in planning your fall wardrobe and its accessories. Black continues. But with a difference. It is seriously challenged for primary position by colors, notably brown and green.

These are in the subdued and exceedingly dark tones. The best of the new greens are far less vivid than even hunter's green. Belly lynx is often used as a trimming on tweed coats in these shades. An interesting variation is Robin Hood green, rather yellow, almost chartreuse, in fact, but even richer. This I have seen in tweed and velvet.

The browns tend to be greyish rather than reddish. But if you have a yearning for red, there are plenty of them, and very smart they are, especially in rust and orange versions. Heavy tweeds are daring in these colors. I also have seen the soft crushed raspberry, for the afternoon. This is extremely flattering and should be most becoming to the grey haired woman, I imagine. Blue for the street is often in the powder and cadet range, never in hard tones, although there are some purple blues such as royal. Navy is firmly entrenched, still and should maintain its position.

Blue, as far as I am able to judge is the leading pastel shade, with yellow and lettuce greens in evidence. Grey, for the distinguished woman is decidedly a high fashion. In velvet, trimmed with silver fox, it is most beautiful. Obviously it will never enjoy great general popularity as it is adapted only to a very special type. It is an outstanding background for jewels, second only to black.

Behold the stranger!

A STRANGER moves to your neighborhood. You observe him tolerantly, but with no immediate display of interest. You are an established resident, getting along very nicely before he came.

But you do not avoid him. For reasons not entirely unselfish you wait for him to reveal himself. Possibly he may add something to your social and business life. Possibly he will take a highly respected place in the community. He may even become one of your intimates. It is up to him.

So you note his manners, talk with him, and form an opinion. If he comes up to your requirements, you accept him, and often he proves a welcome addition to your group of friends.

It is with exactly the same attitude that the intelligent newspaper reader regards the advertisements of products new to him. These strangers may add something to his civilized enjoyment. They may contribute to his comfort, safety — even to his success. In many ways they may prove valuable. Certainly it is wise to give them careful consideration.

Read the advertisements in the daily newspapers. They may be the means of introducing you to products that will take important places in your life. And every day they will give you information that enables you to buy intelligently and make your money go farther.

THE WOMAN OF IT

Do Give Their Families a Chance!

PUBLIC and official welcome to Admiral Byrd and his gallant companions must go on for another week or more, a woman knows, but she can't help hoping that the first few days just past are the hardest which the women who love the heroes will have to endure. Isn't it about time that the wives and mothers were given a chance? Honestly, the more we think of the break they got when the expedition landed in New York last week, the more indignant we are! If New York women ever arrange a reception for returned wanderers, their women-folk will be given first opportunity to greet them at affectionate length and in decent privacy.

Every woman who cares deeply for son or husband knows what the two Mrs. Byrds have been feeling, during these long two years just past. The Southern pride of the elder woman, the New England reserve of the younger may have kept under tight-lipped control their anguished anxiety. But their record was written ineffaceably for another discerning woman to read.

"It seemed somehow," wrote Miriam Teichner in The Evening World, after studying the wife and mother of the Admiral at his City Hall reception, "as though those long months of Antarctic dark and cold that had left the men of the Byrd Polar Expedition untouched, save to give them a deep tan and a look of hale vigor, had etched themselves in lines of patient suffering about the eyes and the tips of the women who stayed at home." The face of Richard Byrd's mother showed, to Miss Teichner, "tired and sad. The mouth drooped, and the lips quivered."

What devoted mother can fail to understand and sympathize? Thinking of her own son, what mother will not appreciate the tender fury with which Admiral Byrd's mother greeted him— "The next time you start on any expedition, some one is going to chloroform you."

AND his wife, the mother of his four splendid youngsters—small wonder that The Evening World woman reporter saw that "her face, too, was the face of a sad and tired woman—a woman who has worried overmuch."

She had gone down the bay on a tug, hoping to board her husband's flagship, and had tossed up and down all night on waves too rough to allow transshipment. If we had been in her place we should have tried to swim across! Then, worn out, without her husband's kiss, she had to return to the city and be content, for her first meeting after two years, with a handclasp before the crowds and cameras at the Battery—after two years of pain and loneliness and dread!

The wives and mothers of the crew of Byrd's expedition were even worse off, since they went down the harbor to bring back their beloved men—and then there wasn't room on the boat. All the parades and receptions, all the luncheons and dinners and medals and freedom of the city, and all the deserved tribute to Byrd and his men. But we can't help believing they would appreciate even more a little time off from the limelight, to get acquainted all over again with their families. We are perfectly certain the families want the chance for catching up the long arrears of love and companionship they have missed for affectionate talk and caresses—all the food for which the hungry loneliness of women longs.

Meanwhile, joining in salute to the heroes, yet we and other women can be deeply thankful that every night, for us, there is a beloved step on the boardwalk, or the paved walk, or the walk from the elevator—that each of us has a husband where we want him, which is neither at the South Pole nor the North Pole but at HOME!

MOTHER KNOWS BEST

Our next-door neighbor has four sons. And before the family moved in I had learned all about them. The mother particularly assured me that her eldest had no sweetheart. And mother knows best. So I decided to spend my next vacation Right here at home— I felt I'd never lack company. With such neighbors next door... Fate was always against me. I had just returned from a week-end and learned that my neighbors were giving a party. But I was weary. So I retired early and promptly fell asleep. Suddenly, I awoke. I heard a voice saying: "Darling, I love you!" 'Twas just beneath my window. And as I was about to arise and don my prettiest, fluffiest negligee, and appear on the scene. So that my neighbor's oldest might say it again to me—

Shipments of watermelon to our local markets are almost double what they were a week ago, and from now on the prices will drop. Soon they will be within reach of the most modest household budget.

Whether you buy them while they rank among the table luxuries, as many of our picknickers do, or wait until they are moderately priced, every housewife ought to put up a generous supply of watermelon pickle. A generous supply is necessary, for this pickle is so delicious to serve with cold meats that it is hard to provide enough so that there will be some left for the winter supply pantry.

Utilizing the coarse, white part of the rind as this pickle does, it is an economical product.

There are many ways of making watermelon pickle; in fact, every old-fashioned cook has her favorite recipe, and many of them call for a variety of spices such as is rarely found in a modern home. There are simpler recipes, however, which are just as satisfactory. Here is one that utilizes honey instead of sugar.

KAREN HOLLIS

WATERMELON PICKLE
Rind of one medium-sized watermelon, cut in 1½ pounds
1 pound honey
¾ cup water
Sliced rind of one lemon
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry ginger
Juice of one lemon
Boil all of the ingredients, except the melon, together for ten minutes. Add the watermelon rind, which has had the outer green removed and been cut in small cubes, and simmer gently for three hours. Add one cup of crushed pineapple (fresh or canned) and cook one-half hour longer. Seal in jars.

An old North Carolina recipe which provides pickles that are much more highly spiced follows:

NORTH CAROLINA WATERMELON PICKLE
1 pound watermelon rind, peeled and cut in cubes
1 lemon
½ cup mild vinegar
1 pound brown sugar
4 pieces whole ginger
6 sticks whole cinnamon
2 whole cloves
2 cups water

Put the cubes of melon rind in a kettle, add hot water to cover and simmer for two hours. Drain, add other ingredients and boil slowly for one hour. Put in jars, distributing the whole spices between them, and seal.

BRIDAL GOWN OF STIFF LYONS VELVET WITH FLOWING TULLE VEIL

showing of brides' and bridesmaids' costumes, buy them, rush home and wear them. No—all the special services for dressing wedding parties have quite altered that speedy little American trick.

A June bride plans and buys her wedding regalia in January. A September or October bride shops carefully in July. Then, comes wedding time, that job is off her hands and out of the family's way. Ten days before the wedding bride's and bridesmaids' dresses are hanging in the closet ready to put on—the flowers are ordered, the pictures taken and all hands can give attention to party-fying without the deadly business of fussing and fitting hanging about their necks. It makes, in the long run, for a more gracious wedding party. Nerves are well groomed and in better order.

If you are living in quarters too small to accommodate with ease six or seven extra gowns, they will keep them in condition at the shop and deliver them intact just before the wedding.

For Period Brides
PERIOD gowns are lovely for brides, but you must be sure you are the right type for the selected style. It is simpler to dress in the fashion of the day—not so many dangers.

See, for instance, the Lelong bridal gown illustrated. It is made of the handsomest of satin brocade, absolutely the latest word in material for bridal gowns. The tulle veil held by a band of orange blossoms is quaintly fastened under the chin. It is imported by B. Altman & Co.

Then the maid of honor for this party is dressed in frosted pink chiffon, long and full and graceful, while the bridesmaids follow in frosted blue. These frosted colors are ever so pale—just a shimmery suggestion of color.

Small bouquets are carried. They are much smarter than this idea of lugging large bush arrangements up the church aisle.

Details That Count

THERE are conventions and standards about bridal party dressings that always are observed—there are others that deviate somewhat. For instance, the gloves. If a bride or her attendant wear long sleeves she does not bother with gloves. If the sleeves are short then long gloves, either kid, suede or lace mits come into the picture.

For jewelry the bride wears the smallest string of pearls, unless she has real diamonds, which on this occasion caston are brought successfully into the limelight.

Flowers for the bride are small and quite simple in their bunches. Gardenias and lilies of the valley are the best, though white orchids and lilies of the valley are still good—but large, drooping floral pieces are not the thing at all.

If your gown is period style, not mediaeval, then carry a small nosegay surrounded by lace, and brides this year are using odd bits of family heirloom lace instead of the paper variety for this purpose.

Just let mothers and old-maid aunts hear of a wedding in the offing and they always trot out bits of old lace more apt to stimulate stubborn "I won't" than any other form of expression from the blushing bride. If they'll let you cut it up—grand—for you can take it to one of those people who reshape old lace by hand and you'll never know the difference, but mix on using it in one solid lump. If you have enough, an all-lace veil with a severely plain dress is lovely—or you can have a little lace Dutch cap with its tulle veil, bunched low over the ears—then streaming down.

Keep the lace off the forehead when using this cap, or a beaded one or an orange blossom crown or anything of the sort. You can pull the hair out at the sides for becomingness, but keep the forehead bare and plain as the design of these decorations has meant it to be.

Brides' slippers are better plain—white crepe pumps are best. Just because they show in the shops large buckles with satin ruffles or lace hunked in is no reason for wearing them. If buckles there must be, then little bow knots of rhinestone or pearls only are permitted.

So much for some hints for the bride and her procession—only a sister on a long list of beauty that awaits her choice.

Refrigerator Comforts

SOME home-makers always have cold water on tap in the refrigerator, no matter how many ice cubes are available. There are some good looking, clear glass bottles, done in a cut design and pretty enough to send to the table. These are the quart size, are capped with non-leakable metal and are sold in pairs at a very moderate price.

A new trick in a beverage jug is a glass cylinder inserted down the centre and in which cracked ice is placed. In this way the beverage is thoroughly chilled without dilution. The intensely low temperature and dry cold of automatic refrigerators is withering to some fruits and vegetables as many a housewife has learned. An enamel pan now is sold as the perfect container for such perishables, the cover lifted a bit so that in some unaccountable way the moisture remains inside and the fruit and vegetables keep crisp and fresh.

A Unique Gift

AMONG the gifts of a June bride was an attractive basket containing a dozen glasses of assorted home-made jellies and jams. The basket had been painted with white enamel paint and extra glass was daintily wrapped in white crepe paper. On the handle was a large bow of white satin ribbon through which were thrust sprays of artificial lilies of the valley, because these were the bride's favorite flower and she preferred them to orange blossoms as her bridal bouquet.

It was a most thoughtful gift and the giver may be reasonably sure that it is appreciated by the recipient even if there are several duplicates.

TELLING THE WORLD

J. Herman Seiditz to-day analyzes what is the matter with Wall Street. Mr. Seiditz needs no introduction to the public as a financial expert. For two years he was a silent partner of Ponzi's, until Ponzi took a run-out powder, leaving Mr. Seiditz with the blue and white ones. He was a second lieutenant in the panic of 1927 and the first man to buy two seats on the New York Stock Exchange, one for his overcoat and hat. In 1884 Mr. Seiditz was elected Vice President of the Chicago Grain Exchange and became starter of the grain elevators. He joined a financial firm in 1903 as a dummy director. So great was his success at this, he resigned and engaged as a ventriloquist's dummy. He returned to Wall Street seven years ago, since which time he has been a floor man for Dillon Read, in charge of brass cuspidors and the thesaurus. His keen analysis of the financial situation appears directly below.

THE TROUBLE WITH WALL STREET
By J. Herman Seiditz
I DO not see why investors insist on being panicky. Since last October the market has been getting all the breaks. What more do the customers want?

Personally, I think the outlook is very hopeful. Business will pick up right away. For instance, just as soon as Admiral Byrd starts on his lecture tour, people will become icebergs. This will not only improve the iceberg lettuce business, but the demand for ice cubes will increase and General Motors and General Electric will go soaring.

Then you take July and August, when the vacation period will be in full swing. Millions of people will start buying 5 and 10 cent stamps in

Midsummer Care Of Cannas

By Karin Broberg

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

CANNAS are plants that should be grown at a distance from the house. The cannas are liked as background plants. You can grow them either as a large group on the lawn, or you can plant them against fences or use them as a screen to hide an unsightly vista.

Always plant cannas in the richest kind of soil. Dig the soil deeply and place the tubers or plants about one and a half feet apart. If you are attempting to grow your first cannas, set out potted plants. They require no care after planting except watering. Being semi-tropical plants, they must be planted in a sunny place. They are at their best when planted in the shrubbery border, or in subtropical groups in combination with castor oil beans and ornamental grasses.

Never attempt to plant a bed of mixed varieties. The difference in their height makes this unwise. If, however, you want a circular bed, select the tall growing varieties for the centre and dwarf varieties for the edge.

Caterpillars are apt to attack the young leaves of cannas. In a short time one of these creepers will ruin a leaf, and the breaking of one leaf often mars the beauty of the entire plant. Spray with arsenate of lead, or you may pick them off by hand.

During July and August cannas will be benefited by a liberal application of sheep manure. They must be fed if you want large flowers in the fall. When watering your cannas with a garden hose, never use a heavy, forceful stream.

To keep cannas over winter you must cut them back to within six inches of the ground. Store them in a warm, dark, dry place. Never lay them so that they touch each other.

Sprinklers Get Funny

WHEN junior is told to run across the damp lawn and change the sprinkler to a dry spot, it will be more of a lark if the water sprouter is in the form of a funny little duck, a frog or some such thing. Some sprinklers—of enameled iron—look like turtles, alligators and the like, in color of course. Utilities in garden appliances might as well be amusing and colorful as the ordinary unimaginative kinds that endured for decades until some one had a bright idea.

Even the faucet may take the animal form. Instead of the usual four pronged handle or ring type, there is a little mouse or a dog perched on its hind legs, slightly caricatured for the whimsical touch.

If you are wondering what on earth is present to some friend who is garden-mad—a friend to whom you are obligated for past courtesies, why not send one of these trick things?

Costume Bags

PURELY of summer character, light toned bags class themselves as definitely for sports and town use.

The shantung bag in natural tone or pastel, decorated with an unusual fastening and braided handle belongs to the spectator. Also the white kid envelope trimmed with colored stitching and lined with silk in the predominating color of the stitching, with perhaps a crystal handle, is intended to accompany the spectator costume.

For town wear the zipper bag of beige leather shows usually some trimming such as black composition and crystal. With the afternoon suit of silk an envelope of moire or silk faille is suggested in black, tan, dark blue or brown.

For town wear the zipper bag of beige leather shows usually some trimming such as black composition and crystal. With the afternoon suit of silk an envelope of moire or silk faille is suggested in black, tan, dark blue or brown.

Between now and the first of September, there will be thousands of grade crossing wrecks. This will not only boost the demand for new motor cars, but should help the Baldwin and American Locomotive companies for spare parts.

I cannot see any reason for investors being nervous. I admit that artificial leopard skin coat business is spotty. I also know car loadings have decreased, but this is due to the introduction of the rumble seat. The business the first quarter for American Tel. and Tel. was never better, showing a healthy increase in wrong numbers.

The trouble with Wall Street is that the brokers are too lazy. They come to work at 10 A. M. and say to themselves, "I paid $400,000 for this Stock Exchange seat, so I might as well sit down." Then when the gong rings they think it is the patrol wagon and get frightened. The result is Steel opens 4 to 5 points off.

I think it would improve the market if they took away the Stock Exchange seats and made the brokers stand up. Then they would attend more to business. It is hard to make a man get up from a soft leather chair just to gain an eighth of a point. If we continued to let the brokers have seats, the next thing you know they will be demanding davenport.

Another trouble with the Stock Exchange is that there are too many specialists. I am in favor of just appointing one man, Ohio Sales, as a specialist and see what he could do. Then the ticker tape running behind an hour or more is another bad thing. What I would do to prevent this is to have Floyd Gibbons read the market quotations off on the radio. With Floyd rattling off the prices the market would know at 1:30 P. M. how the market stood at 3 o'clock.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:
"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas or is griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

TOT RIDES WITH COFFIN OF MOTHER

CHICAGO, July 12. —UP—Four year old Richard McLaughlin went back home to Warsaw, Ind., tonight and wondered why his own mother wasn't waiting for him at the train, as the maid on the Pullman car had promised.

Richard was too young to know that the coffin which baggagemen took off one of the cars ahead contained his mother's body but he wasn't too young to know that he wanted her to comfort him.

All the way from Missoula, Mont., on the train where everyone was kind to him, Richard had whimpered. Mostly he could hold back the tears; but sometimes they came in spite of the reassurance of Bessie Glaskins, Pullman maid, that "mother would be a-waitin'" at the station in Warsaw.

Tears Come

But mother wasn't waiting, and Richard gave way to the tears he had brushed manfully away for two days.

For two days on the train the maid cared for him and Bobbie Young, 3-1-2 year old Chicago girl gave him most of her toys.

But he wanted to know where his mother was, the maid said, "and why she wasn't with him as she always had been."

"I didn't have the heart to tell him what had happened," the maid said, "so I just comforted him by saying she would be at the station in Warsaw."

Lonesome Boy

The negro girl brushed away a tear herself, and reporters forgot to ask him any questions. He wouldn't have answered anyway. He didn't smile or talk. He just looked at the crowd, wistful and afraid — his blue eyes wide open.

Richard had on a worn gray suit of overalls, as if he had been called in from play and started on the journey. His mother, Mrs. Thereta McLaughlin, died unexpectedly after an operation, and there wasn't much time for Richard to get ready for the trip that ordinarily would have been a lark. So he came in his overalls, with a battered suit case and a lot of new friends.

Tonight, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hoppus, Richard's grandparents, who didn't have the money to go to Missoula and return, took Richard home with them to keep him, and sometime, when he gets old enough to understand, they will tell him why he made the journey alone and why everyone was so good to him.

MACDONALD TO BE BROUGHT TO CALIFORNIA FROM EAST

ward D. Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, who found MacDonald in Trenton, N. J., in 1921, and with Frank P. Walsh, New York attorney, who has been a leader in the Moonsey Defense League, secured from him first the retraction of his testimony.

Walsh began tonight plans to carry the case forward again in an effort to free both men. He announced that he would file a motion for a new hearing with the California supreme court, which recently refused Billings a pardon. He said he would base his plea for rehearing on MacDonald's reputation and "multitudinous errors" which the supreme court made in its decision.

MacDonald went to California in 1921, but the grand jury had threatened him for perjury, and he did not appear to repudiate his testimony. He may face perjury charges again, but he says he is willing to face them to free Mooney.

An Old Man

He took his new found prominence philosophically. He appeared the tired old man, resigned to what fate still may bring him. It was John C. Tauber, at whose house he lived when he first returned here who identified him, leading to his arrest. He immediately issued a statement through his lawyers, again repudiating his testimony.

Tauber was sitting out on his porch reading his evening paper, after dinner, when he called to his wife inside. He showed her a picture in the Post.

"This picture," he said, "I'm sure it's MacDonald who used to stay with us."

"There isn't any doubt about it," his wife said.

Tauber went down to a district station, reported it and MacDonald was arrested and taken to the station.

O'Connor, in asking Judge Dawkins to hold MacDonald temporarily, said MacDonald's allegations that the district attorney, officials of his office and the police had made him testify the way he did, constituted "serious charges" and raised the question of possible prosecution of those officers.

Saw Billings

The state's attorney said he was positive MacDonald had told him that he had seen Billings at the scene of the explosion, carrying a satchel, which would put a new complexion on the Billings angle of the case. In his previous repudiation, MacDonald said that he had never seen either of the two before they were pointed out to him by the police.

This development may prove significant in the reopened case. O'Connor also revealed at the hearing that in answer to a wire to San Francisco police notifying them of MacDonald's arrest, he had received the brief reply that there were no charges against MacDonald there. He argued that San Francisco officials were not sufficiently advised of developments here, and that this telegram was not enough to indicate whether MacDonald was wanted.

Thereupon, he proposed to wire MacDonald's statement to the governor and Judge Dawkins consented to hold the witness temporarily until O'Connor hears from California. MacDonald's lawyers merely sought his release from police confinement, insisting they would take him to California if Governor Young wanted him.

Aids Mooney

O'Connor, after a conference with MacDonald today said, "If the life imprisonment sentence imposed on Mooney was based primarily on MacDonald's testimony, it would be monstrous to allow that sentence to stand, in my opinion."

Ruzicka also issued a statement after talking with MacDonald, saying:

"He said the police kept him at a hotel for some time and fed and plied him with liquor. Now he is anxious to get the whole thing over with. It has been preying on his mind for 14 years."

"If the California authorities want him on a perjury charge, he will waive extradition and go back and tell his story and face the penalty, no matter what it may be."

"If there is no charge against him, he will come back of his own accord."

ENGLISH BANK CONTROLS MILLS

LONDON, July 12. —UP— The Bank of England has taken its first step in the rationalization of the country's industry. Under the terms of a recent announcement, the bank obtained controlling interest in the merger of five of England's biggest steel companies with a combined capital of nearly $40,000,000. The five companies are amalgamated into two concerns and the directors will be appointed by Montagu Norman, now serving his tenth term as governor of the Bank of England.

Norman thus becomes the nation's rationalization dictator, as well as its steel king. The Bank of England has already formed the Securities Management Trust for the assistance of heavy industries, and the Bankers' Industrial Development company to give financial aid to the basic industries. The organizations formed from the amalgamation of the big steel companies are, called the Lancashire Steel Corporation, and the Wigan Coal corporation. The steel and coal interests of the combine will be developed separately.

The Securities Management Trust subscribe £500,000 ($2,500,000), to the Lancashire Steel Corporation, and in return receives enough "B" ordinary shares to give it voting control. The firm of Henry Schroeder, chief cooperator with the Bank of England in its new industrial schemes and one of the shareholders in the Bankers Industrial Development company, is raising fresh capital for the deal and steel development. Thus the whole scheme is under the control of the governor of the Bank of England, as further rationalization plans are expected to be.

Financial quarters received the announcement of the steel merger approvingly. There was some criticism from labor quarters, however, on the grounds that the industrialists would not welcome the principle upon which the bank's assistance was given. The opposition seems to be that financiers are obtaining too large a control of industry. It is pointed out that the bank holds only $2,500,000 of the $40,000,000 shares of the steel combine, but holds the voting rights and appoints the directors of the new companies.

Critics of the scheme foresee that if the similar rationalization schemes are carried out, the industrialists must hand themselves over to the bank and lose effective control of their industries if they are to receive financial assistance. Thus far, there have been no indications that the bank desires any such wide powers. The announced principle has been that the bank will assist the basic industries toward rationalization if a plan is found acceptable to both the industrialists and the financiers. It was made clear that there would be no support for hit-or-miss schemes.

The chief objection of the Laborites is that the Bank of England is not a public institution, subject to national control, but a strictly private body, subject to no outside influence. It is agreed that the city should support industry on the road to recovery, but the Laborites wonder where the industrialists, the workers and the MacDonald government comes in.

Two Tots Burned To Death In Tub

SEATTLE, July 12.—UP—Two children, brother and sister, were burned to death while playing in their bathing suits in the bathtub, and their mother was probably fatally burned today when their home burned down.

The dead are Morris Pollock, 7, and Mildred, 5.

Mrs. John W. Pollock, their mother, was taken to the City Emergency hospital suffering from burns which may prove fatal.

Senate Hearing On Campaign Funds Monday

CHICAGO, July 12.—UP—A final round up of witnesses was being made today for the start on Monday of the senate investigating committee's hearing on the campaign expenditures of Ruth Hanna McCormick and other senatorial candidates prior to the April primary election.

Subpoenas for 50 witnesses have been issued for the hearing. The committee, headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, will conduct its sessions in the federal building courtroom.

Mrs. McCormick's campaign expenses, approximating $250,000 came under scrutiny soon after she had won the Republican senatorial nomination in Illinois from Senator Charles S. Deneen.

On the Democratic ticket, former senator James Hamilton Lewis went to a prearranged victory as the democratic senatorial nominee, without spending much real money. His opponent spent even less.

The Nye committee heard Mrs. McCormick in Washington last May, and she told them in the time she had spent $252,572.30. She said she had handled her campaign entirely alone.

WHEAT DRIVE IS FINISHED

ENID, Okla., July 12.—UP—The federal farm boards campaign for reduction of southwestern wheat production ended here today in the face of militant criticism by opponents to its plans.

As Chairman A. Alexander Legge of the farm board and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde completed a tour of five southwestern wheat states, they were faced by a personal request for Legge's resignation and a demand Legge explain the selling of farm board wheat in Kansas City today.

The board has sought to remedy low wheat prices by withholding last year's wheat it bought up from the market and at the same time warning growers to plant less wheat or face several years of lean profit.

Governor Clyde M. Reed of Kansas, a candidate for re-election, who opened, a public campaign ed by the committee, listed his total expenditures at $24,493.22.

Members of the investigating committee, besides the chairman, are Senators Porter Hale of Vermont; Roscoe Patterson of Missouri; C. C. Dill of Washington, and Robert F. Wagner of New York.

CHRYSLER HAS "DENTIST" ON JOB

According to Harry Curry, local Chrysler dealer, one inspector in the Chrysler engineering laboratories has earned the title of "dentist" for he spends a great part of his time inspecting teeth.

Sound teeth are as essential in an automobile as they are in human beings, according to Chrysler engineers, and no dentist ever examined teeth more carefully than this inspector watches the teeth of Chrysler ring gears. Ring gear teeth must be sound and true because it is through them that driving power is transmitted to the rear axle.

To make sure that these ring gear teeth are hardened for the tremendous strain and wear in the operation of the car, a number of sample ring gears are taken out of each day's production and are brought to the "dentist" who examines them by the scleroscope. This device consists of a glass tube with graduated readings like a thermometer in which a steel ball is drawn to the top by air pressure from a rubber bulb. When pressure is released, the steel ball drops by gravity and rebounds against the ring gear teeth. The amount of this rebound measured by readings of the glass tube indicates the hardness of the gear teeth. Obviously, the harder the steel the greater the rebound, so soft or inferior steel is immediately detected. This test is so quickly and easily made that its use is quite extensive in checking ring gear teeth.

In manufacturing, these ring gears are given a carbonizing and heat treatment which puts a hard outer skin on the surface of the metal, thus making the gears practically impervious to wear. This is the reason why Chrysler rear axles can run quietly for years. If surface hardness is not produced, the gear teeth fail to stand up, and noisy, troublesome axles result. Accordingly, an automobile "dentist" has a most important part in insuring the highest standards of motor manufacturing and performance.

against acreage reduction in a debate with Hyde and Legge in Kansas, today wired Legge demanding that he repeat the promise that the board will not sell its stored wheat in competition with the new crop. Reed said the board had sold 350,000 bushels of old wheat to the Kansas Mills corporation in Kansas City, causing a break in the market.
